

1000x

LANDSCAPE ARCHITECTURE

BRAUN

CITY
Boston, MA

COUNTRY
USA

REGION
America's

TYPOLGY
Botanical garden
(approx. 4,500 m<sup>2</sup>).

COMPLETION
2002

CLIENT
Harvard University

OTHER CREATIVES
Marjann Thompson / Mary-ann Thompson Architects

LANDSCAPING
Reed Hilderbrand

02

03

OUTDOOR CLASSROOM AND VINE TRELLISES

The Arnold Arboretum remains one of the best-preserved landscapes of America's premier landscape architect Frederick Law Olmsted. The Pavilion, within the new vine and shrub collection, serves as an outdoor classroom and a place of repose. Visitors moving toward the pavilion experience a spatial sequence of continual discovery and disclosure, alternating between the intimacy created by the planted vine structures and the expansiveness of the central lawn. Vine panels occlude views to the planted terraces, and gradually reveal the shelter. Once at the pavilion, attention is directed out over the prospect of the gardens, revealing the expanse of the site.

01, 03 Vine trellises 02 Pavilion, interior view 04 Pavilion, back 05 Site plan

